THE SITUATION CRITICAL.

After Greely Perhaps a Deluge of Blood.

The Very Existence of the French Republic Threatened.

LONDON, Nov. 20.—The problem of the Presidency of the French Republic grows more intricate daily. It is now almost absolutely certain that the Republican faction will not nominate, though they can not fail to do so, and the Republic is confronted by the greatest peril that has ever threatened its existence. President Greely has expressed his determination to cling to his office until he knows who has been chosen as his successor, and this famous declaration that he will not allow the newly-elected President to succeed him unless he shall be a Conservative and entirely acceptable to a large majority of the Republicans, even going to the length of using military force to prevent his taking possession of the office. How far M. Greely could carry out this programme no one can accurately judge, but all who know him believe that he would make the attempt at almost any odds if he believed himself justified therein. If M. Clemenceau should carry the election, or the Boulangers should succeed in electing the General through combinations with other sections, there will certainly be a row, and a bloody one, at that. The excitement is great, and party and factional feeling is wrought up to a point where the slightest thing may cause an outbreak. The commanders of the different army corps have received sealed instructions, which they are to open in the event of an outbreak following the election of a new President. A movement is spreading among members of the Right to propose Vice-Admiral Dampierre d'Ornon, who is now a member of the Chamber of Deputies, for the Department of Seniors, as a candidate for the Presidency. He is said to be a man of great energy and ability, and is a member of the Chamber of Deputies. The nature of the alleged Russian objections to M. Ferry becoming President. He said the grave and critical position of home affairs required that he should remain in France. There was sure to be an outbreak, he said, if M. Ferry was elected. La Luchette accuses the Ministry of offering bribes right and left. The paper appeals to President Greely to remain in office to save France. The latest in regard to the situation is that all efforts to induce President Greely to remain in office have proved useless.

A GREAT SCHEME.

The Standard Oil Company to Pipe Chicago With New York.

TOLEDO, O., Nov. 20.—A gigantic scheme to pipe the Standard Oil Company, involving millions of dollars has just been unearthed here. It is nothing more nor less than a grand trunk pipe line from Chicago to New York by way of the Ohio and Pennsylvania oil fields. The pipe line, when completed, will be nearly 1,000 miles long and will cost at least $5,000,000. It will connect the Ohio and the Pennsylvania fields and oil can be piped eastward or westward as desired. The Standard Oil Company has already commenced to lease the right of way through Ohio and Indiana. Thousands of the best oil lands have been secured, and the intention is to develop and test all the country between Chicago and Lima, O. The step was necessary by the high railroad rates consequent upon the carrying into effect of the interstate commerce law, and the intention of the Standard Oil Company is to utilize the oil piped to Chicago for fuel as well as for illuminating purposes.

REIGN OF TERROR.

Bloody Affray Between Whites and Negroes on Cal Island.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Dec. 1.—A reign of terror prevails in Cal Island, in Citron County, Ark., some twenty-five miles below Memphis, on the Mississippi river. Martin Thomas and Joe Hamlett, two residents of that neighborhood, arrived in Memphis this evening and brought intelligence of an affray which occurred this morning between whites and negroes, which resulted in the killing of two negroes and the wounding of several others. The origin of the affray grew out of the arrest of the negroes, who, it is alleged, insulted some white women yesterday. They were to be tried this morning before a justice of the peace. Their act had aroused the indignation of the whites and about a dozen of them, armed with revolvers, went to the preliminary investigation by the colored magistrate. As to who started the row nothing can be learned, but in the shooting that followed both the negroes under arrest were killed and two or three others of the whites wounded. The negroes fled, but after arming themselves prepared to return to the scene of the conflict. They fired at Thomas and Hamlett, who were in a skiff, and when last seen they were going in the direction of where their companions were killed. The whites then returned to Cal Island outnumbering the negroes ten to one, and serious trouble is anticipated. It is impossible to gather further details to-night.

The marriage ceremony was commenced, the man giving his name as Joseph R. Elin, of Greerbrook, Montgomery County, Pennsylvania, and the would-be bride that of Emma Fye, of the same place. Their answers were satisfactory, but the minister's suspicions were aroused by the fact that the woman kept her face heavily veiled, and positively refused to remove the veil when requested to do so. Finally, the minister pulled the veil from her face, and was astonished to find her features still concealed by a gauze mask. This he quickly tore off, and found the woman to be a nee David Pfueger, brakeman, 'was terrified broken about the head and had his shoulder broken. Jos. BANKING AND FARMING.

Two Interesting Public Reports—The Condition of the National Bank and the Condition of the National Bank of Agriculture.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—The annual report of the Comptroller of the Currency shows that the total number of National banks organized up to October 31 was 3,834, of which 325 have gone into voluntary liquidation, 119 have failed, leaving in operation at that date 3,400. The total number of new banks formed during the last year was 231; total number closed during the year 328, of which 28 went into voluntary liquidation and 5 failed.

The gross increase in National bank capital during the year amounted to $9,504,775, of which $2,400,000 represents an increase of capital by banks since November 1, 1886. There was, however, a decrease of capital of $3,333,420, of which $2,877,450 was the aggregate capital of the thirty-three banks which went into voluntary liquidation and failed, and the remainder represents a decrease of capital by banks still in operation. The net increase of capital for the year is, therefore, $6,127,355.

On the other hand there is a net decrease of $2,000,000 in the circulation represented by bonds. The decrease resulting from the surrender of circulation by banks still in operation is $2,700,000; an increase of circulation by banks going into voluntary liquidation and failing is $1,474,300, making a gross decrease of $904,700, offset by a total increase of $9,504,775, which results in an increase by the formation of new banks of $4,900,000 and an increase of circulation by previously existing banks to the amount of $1,574,300.

In the cases of four of the five banks which failed the creditors have received principal and interest in full, and in the case of the fifth, the total of dividends amounts to 90 per cent. The total amount of money paid in dividends during the last year is $2,104,281; whole amount paid to creditors of insolvent banks since 1880 is $20,000,000. The total amount of money paid in dividends during the last year is $2,104,281; whole amount paid to creditors of insolvent banks since 1880 is $20,000,000.

The Comptroller submits a codification of the laws of the United States relating to the National Bank of Agriculture. The minimum amount of bonds to be deposited by a bank as security for circulation shall be 90 per cent of the capital of banks not over $100,000, and 100 per cent for banks of which the capital exceeds $100,000; also that the semi-annual duty on circulation be hereafter charged only on the amount of the increase of circulation over the minimum amount as above; also that the National bank notes be covered as a part of the lawful reserves of banks.

The existing laws as to the responsibility of officers of banks are modified by this code so as to avoid existing obstacles to their prompt enforcement. The restriction on banks as to making loans in excess of 10 per cent of capital to any one party is modified in respect to loans on collateral security and the total limit is raised to 20 per cent of capital. The provisions as to reserve upon deposits are modified so as not to include Government deposits, and the provision as to State taxation of National banks is also modified.
